Another upgrade of the HQ, HJ, HX body style, the HZ was the final in the 'H' series Holdens introduced in October 1977. The major change was the introduction of Radial-tuned Suspension; as well as modifications to suspension bushes and power steering system; as well as the fitting of rear disc brakes (standard on Statesman and GTS, optional on other models). Changes to the model line-up included the removal of the Belmont and 2-door coupes, with the Kingswood SL becoming the volume seller. External styling changes included introduction of the egg-crate grille, except on the Statesman, and different badging and hubcaps. In 1978 minor improvements were made to equipment levels. The Statesman SL/E was introduced in 1979 at a level between the DeVille and Caprice.
