

John Howard Angas (1823-1904) was the second son of George Fife Angas. He arrived in South Australia in September 1843, having been appointed to manage his father's estates in the colony. He settled at Tarrawatta near Angaston where he established a successful pastoral business and built a fine homestead called Collingrove. The purchase of further land and livestock soon made him one of the largest landowners and foremost stud-breeders in the colony. In 1871 he entered Parliament as the member for Barossa later becoming a member of the Legislative Council for the Central District from 1887-94. His social, religious and philanthropic interests were also extensive and influential, and he contributed generously towards the establishment of many colonial institutions, including the University of Adelaide. He left an estate worth some £800,000.¹

Susanne Collins Angas, the wife of John Howard Angas, was the daughter of Richard Collins, a corn-factor of Bowden, near Manchester. Her marriage to J.H. Angas took place in England in May 1855. She returned with her husband to live at Collingrove, but ill-health caused them to return to England for some years during which time a son and daughter were born. She died in April 1910, six years after the death of her husband.²

Charles Howard Angas (1861-1928) was the son of J.H. Angas. After being educated at St. Peter's College Adelaide, and in England, he gradually assumed responsibility for his father's vast properties and interests. He too became prominent as a stock-breeder, most notably with Lincoln sheep, while his business interests included chairmanship of the Willowie Land and Pastoral Association and the S.A. Portland Cement Company. Other interests included polo and yatching. In 1885 he married Elizabeth Ety Dean, daughter of William Dean of Adelaide, and they took up residence at Lindsay House near Angaston, formerly occupied by his grandfather (G.F. Angas). They had four children, three sons - Ronald Fife Angas, Dudley Theyer Angas and John Keith Angas (later Sir Keith Angas) – and a daughter – Dorothy Beryl Angas. Charles Howard Angas died in December 1928.³

Ronald Fife Angas (1891-1978) was educated at St. Peter's Adelaide, and Oxford University. During the First World War he served as a Lieutenant in the Royal Field Artillery in France and later as a wireless instructor with the Royal Air Force. In June 1915 he married Monica Murray and they later resided at Collingrove where he carried on the family interests in stockbreeding. His business connections were indeed, extensive and included the Directorship of Elders Trustee and Executor Company and the S.A. Portland Cement Company. He also showed a strong interest in sailing and motor cars. In 1976 he moved to Adelaide and officially presented Collingrove homestead to the National Trust of South Australia.⁴

Address of J.W. Downer QC in action Angas vs Cowan and others , Supreme Court Civil Sittings 1883. Handwritten. 1.5 cm. Manuscript recording the address presented on 13-14 August 1883 by J.W. Downer QC for the defendants in an action brought by John Howard Angas in the Supreme Court against James Cowan and others, for an order to compel the defendants to execute a further charge for 12,000 pounds in pursuance of the terms of a contract. The defendants alleged that the valuation which formed a portion of the amount was improperly made, and that it included articles which ought not to have been valued. The defendants set up a counter claim for 3,000 pounds, being the value of horses improperly and fraudulently removed from the property by the plaintiff after sale to the defendants. The 'S.A. Register' reported the background to this action in the issue of 3 August 1883, Supplement page 1 (g). The manuscript is more detailed than the press reports. Formerly V 1527	1/53

Letter written by George French Angas at 51 Portland Villas, Portland Road, Notting Hill W, London, on 24 November 1864 to a trustee of the Caleb Angas estate in Newcastle. He writes that his long illness and other matters make it necessary that he should receive his share of the legacy from his grandfather's will as soon as possible. The letter is from a collection of letters written by his father George Fife Angas to his English solicitors (PRG 174/64 VIEW ONLINE) and other legal correspondence with Jonathan Angus, agent, and solicitor John Fenwick, both of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and Edward Budden of Budden, Bevan & Tozer of London. (See series PRG 174 Series 65-80).

Papers of John Howard Angas 1823-1904 (son of George Fife Angas)

'Miscellanies' school exercise book
1838. 1 volume. 1.5 cm.

8

Notebook, 118 pages comprising school exercises in history, mathematics, penmanship and drawing by John Howard Angas, including hand-drawn and hand-coloured maps of English counties, illustrations of sheep, and about 20 humorous uncoloured ink drawings. The first item, 'Essay in Chivalry' is dated 1838, when John Howard Angas was 15 years old.

'The Victoria' manuscript periodical 9
1838. 2 volumes. 2.5 cm.

Two small notebooks containing numbers 4, 5, and 6 April-June 1838 of a unique manuscript periodical, 'The Victoria', likely compiled by John Howard Angas, possibly with some assistance from his father George Fife Angas. Most of the content is in the handwriting of John Howard Angas, and some of the text appears to be in his father's handwriting.

PRG 175/9/1: The first volume, 'No. IV. The Victoria. April 1st', 65 pages, contains a miscellany of transcribed contributions including charades, general knowledge, verse (some with illustrations) and some with the contributor's initials. Highlighted articles include: 'South Australia. Port Lincoln', two pages and a tinted watercolour 'Entrance of Port Lincoln taken from behind Memory Cove'; and 'Birds of SA (continued)', 7 pages and a watercolour of a crested turtle dove. Both articles have missing pages. The paintings are copied from published sources.

PRG 175/9/2: The second volume contains number 5, 'The Victoria for May', 55 pages, and number 6 'The Victoria for June', 54 pages, and an index. Highlights include an article on South Australia in each volume, transcriptions of letters from emigrants, including six small brown and grey architectural watercolours with the first article of: the South Australian Bank, the Adelaide Church, the residences of Osmond Gilles and J.H. Fisher, along with cottages and a family residence.

Personal correspondence of John Howard Angas 10
1879-1904. 0.5 cm.

Personal correspondence to and from John Howard Angas, including: two letters from Sir William Francis Drummond Jervis regarding the visit of Princes Albert Victor and George to Collingrove in June 1881; letter from his wife Susanne in 1897; letters from Government House in Adelaide; and the last letter he wrote to his wife before he died, enclosing a cheque for £50 for her birthday, sent 26 April 1904.

Papers of Charles Howard Angas, 1861-1928 (son of J.H. Angas)

Artist's sketch book 11

ca.1879. 1 volume. 1.5 cm
Small sketch book, 31 pages, comprising: pencil sketches of landscapes, ships and buildings, and ten watercolours, including five portraits signed by Charles Howard Angas, of Mr Bovey, S. Lidstone, C. Veale, H. Wells, and W.H. Shilston. Charles Howard Angas was educated in England from approximately 1870 to 1879, and this album may have been compiled during that period.

- Personal correspondence of Charles Howard Angas 1886-1915. 2 cm. 12
Personal correspondence received by Charles Howard Angas comprising: letters from friends including two letters from artist Alexander Henry Hallam Murray (1854-1935) who was visiting Australia and New Zealand in 1890; invitations from society groups; correspondence received from Government House, Adelaide letters regarding World War One fundraising; and miscellaneous documents including Collins family Bible register, and Will of his wife Elizabeth detailing the jewellery to be left to her family members.
